UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE SECOND CIRCUIT

-----X
UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

Plaintiff-Appellee,

-against-

Docket No. 74-2303

ROBERTO RIVERA,

Defendant-Appellant.

STATEMENT OF FACT

In 1974 the defendant ROBERTO RIVERA and thirteen (13) others were indicted in the Southern District of New York for conspiracy to import and sell dangerous drugs in the United States. Of the fourteen (14) defendants indicated, only two, the defendants RIVERA and TORRES were on trial here. The instant defendant, ROBERTO RIVERA, was mentioned in Count One, the conspiracy count, as being a purchaser of heroin and cocaine, along with the defendants ANTHONY TORRES, LORENZO CANCIO and others, for more than $1,000,000. The indictment goes on to state twenty one (21) overt acts undertaken by the defendants in furtherance of the conspiracy. Defendant ROBERTO RIVERA is mentioned in Overt Acts ten (10) and twelve (12) as having purchased a quantity of cocaine in May 1971 from defendant JUAN CARLOS FRANCO for a price in excess of $16,000 and as having delivered approximately $16,000 to co-conspirator LORENZO CANCIO in May 1971 in Bronx, New York.

Count four (4) of the indictment, a substantive count, alleges that on or about the 19th day of May, 1971 in the Southern District of New York, the defendant ROBERTO RIVERA did unlawfully and knowingly distribute and possess with intent to distribute approximately two or more kilograms of cocaine.

The Government attempted to prove the guilt of the defendant RIVERA by first attempting to prove him guilty of the conspiracy count. To this end they introduced massive evidence of not one but of multiple conspiracies to import and distribute illicit drugs within the United States. It was not contended that the defendant RIVERA was a member of all of these conspiracies, just the conspiracy in the case at bar. All of this testimony was taken by the Court subject to connection, with the proviso that the Court would entertain a motion to strike and for a mistrial if the Government did not succeed in connecting this material to the defendant RIVERA.

The sole evidence introduced against the defendant RIVERA to prove the Substantive Count, Count # 4, was that the alleged co-conspirator MIGUEL asked the witness CANCIO to take him to the defendant RIVERA'S bar in the Bronx. Once in that bar the defendant RIVERA gave a brown paper bag containing money to MIGUEL. MIGUEL accepted it, counted it, then took out a small book, looked at it and said to the defendant RIVERA that now you owe me $16,000 and asked the defendant RIVERA to give the $16,000 to the witness CANCIO for him. Subsequently, the witness CANCIO testified he collected $16,000 from the defendant RIVERA. There was no testimony that any dangerous drugs had exchanged hands. Nor was there any testimony that the original money passed in the paper bag, or the subsequent $16,000 was for payment for dangerous drugs.

The Government also introduced evidence through the witness REDONDO-PETRAZAS of prior conduct of the defendant RIVERA to show that said defendant was engaged in other criminal acts, criminal acts similar to this conspiracy, but outside of the scope of this conspiracy. The Court allowed the introduction of this otherwise totally inadmissible evidence to show the mental processes (emphasis added) of the defendant RIVERA. However, this was in actuality nothing more than at best rebuttal testimony. As rebuttal testimony it is inadmissible when, as here, the defendant RIVERA did not take the stand to testify on his own behalf.

The Court in ruling on a motion by Mr. RIVERA'S trial attorney stated that conversations about ANTHONY TORRES as testified to by the Government's witness, CANCIO, to be binding upon the defendant RIVERA, must be shown to the satisfaction of the jury to be part of a conspiracy. The Court then went on to state that "the conspiracy we have here is what is called a chain conspiracy".

On the second day of the trial at least one juror and both alternates saw the defendant RIVERA in the hall outside of the Courtroom wearing handcuffs. The juror and alternates were questioned by the Court. Juror number 9 and alternate number 1 stated that this would not influence their decision and were retained as juror and alternate. Alternate number 2 stated that it might influence her decision and was excused.

POINT I

THERE WAS INSUFFICIENT NON-HEARSAY EVIDENCE TO ESTABLISH RIVERA'S PARTICIPATION IN A CONSPIRACY.

The trial judge must satisfy himself that the defendant participated in a conspiracy based upon non-hearsay evidence. Morgan, Functions of Judge and Jury in the Determination of Preliminary Questions of Fact, 43 Harv. L.Rev. 165,182-189 (1929). The prosecution must prove this by a fair preponderance of the evidence independent of the hearsay utterances. United States v. Geaney, 417 F 2d 1116 (2d Cir. 1969), Cert. denied sub nom. United States v. Lynch, 397 U.S. 1028 (1970).

In the instant matter there is absolutely no non-hearsay evidence to link the defendant ROBERTO RIVERA with any conspiracy. The only evidence introduced was through the testimony of the witness CANCIO who stated that he went with MIGUEL to ROBERTO'S bar in the Bronx, that ROBERTO gave MIGUEL money in a paper bag, that MIGUEL said you still owe me $16,000 which you can pay to CANCIO for me, and that CANCIO did collect the $16,000. There was absolutely no testimony as to the passage of dangerous drugs between ROBERTO and MIGUEL, nor even any hearsay testimony by CANCIO that MIGUEL or anyone else stated that the money passed or the $16,000 owed was in payment for dangerous drugs.

The evidence introduced here is susceptible of many interpretations other than ROBERTO RIVERA'S participation in the instant alleged conspiracy. He could have had other criminal reasons for giving this money for MIGUEL such as paying MIGUEL for counterfeit bills, or for hot jewelry. He could even have an innocent reason for giving this money to MIGUEL, such as simply repaying a loan. But, for whatever other reason it may have been for, it could have been for a non-conspiracy reason. Though in Geaney, the Court ruled that "pieces of evidence must be viewed not in isolation but in conjunction" 417 F 2d at 112, this case is distinguishable because here the only evidence introduced as against the defendant ROBERTO RIVERA was the alleged passage of money and the alleged subsequent collection of the $16,000.

If the defendant, as here, merely associates with the other alleged co-conspirators, this is insufficient "other" evidence. United States v. Cimino, 321 F.2d 509, 510 (2d Cir. 1963), cert. denied, 375 U.S. 974 (1964).

In addition to there being sufficient non-hearsay evidence to admit hearsay testimony of an alleged co-conspirator into evidence, the declaration must also be "reliable" Dutton v. Evans, 400 U.S. 74 (1970) the Dutton rule was explained in the Second Circuit's opinion in United States v. Puco, 476 F. 2d 1099 (2d Cir. 1973). When determining whether or not to admit the hearsay testimony into evidence, "the trial judge must determine whether, in the circumstances of the case, that statement bears sufficient indicia of reliability to assure the trier of fact an adequate basis for evaluating the truth of the declaration in the absence of any cross examination". 476 F. 2d at 1107.

Puco went on to state that a declaration in furtherance of a conspiracy will satisfy the reliability test (476 F. 2d at 1108). However, this may not always be true. The declarant may have reason to exaggerate another's involvement, or perhaps, even implicate a non-conspiracy member. If the defense can identify such a motive, Dutton would probably exclude the hearsay statement from evidence. As applied to the instant case, it was shown that the witness CANCIO had more than ample reason and motive for implicating ROBERTO RIVERA, who by their plea the defense contended to be a non-conspiracy member.

The witness CANCIO was an illegal alien in the United States. In the more than ten (10) years he has been in this country he has worked a total of one week at a legitimate job. He has been a pimp who lived with prostitutes. He has carried a gun at all times when he has been out of jail. He has sold heroin and cocaine. He has misused money he collected for others. In short he is a total degenerate. He pleaded guilty to Count 2 of indictment number, 71 CR 1185, one of three federal indictments against him for conspiracy and sale of narcotics, and was sentenced by Judge Pollack on April 12, 1972 for imprisonment for a period of ten (10) years, and was placed on special parole for a period of three years to commence upon expiration of confinement, to cover all three (3) indictments. Applying the reliability test to the testimony of the witness CANCIO it would seem that the Court should set a standard to test the reliability of the declarant himself.

Mere association with individuals involved in a conspiracy to sell illegal drugs is not sufficient evidence to convict a person as a participant in that conspiracy. United States v. Cimino, 321 F. 2d 509, 510 (2d Cir. 1963), cert. den. 375 U.S. 974 (1964). In the same way mere participation in a single isolated narcotics transaction is insufficient to warrant a conspiracy conviction. United States v. Aviles, 274 F. 2d 179, 190 (2d Cir.) cert. den. 362 U.S. 1960.

In Pinkerton v. United States, 328 U.S. 640 (1946), Justice Rutledge dissenting, saw great danger of abuse in the "looseness" associated with the crime of conspiracy:

The old doctrine of merger of conspiracy in the substantive crime has not obtained here. But the dangers for abuse, which in part it sought to avoid, in applying the law of conspiracy have not altogether disappeared... There is some evidence that they may be increasing. The looseness with which the charge may be proved, the almost unlimited scope of vicarious responsibility for others acts which follows once agreement is shown, the psychological advantages of such trade for securing convictions by attributing to one proof against another, these and other inducements require that the broad limits of discretion allowed to prosecuting officers in relation to such charges and trials be not expanded into new, wider and more dubious areas of choice.

328 U.S. at 650. Justice Rutledge called the petitioner's conviction for the substantive charge "...a vicarious criminal responsibility as broad as, or broader than, the vicarious civil liability of a partner for acts done by a co-partner in the course of the firms business...Such analogies from private commercial law and the law of torts are dangerous...for transfer to the criminal field...Guilt there for us remains personal, not vicarious, for the more serious offenses." Id.

POINT II

THE GOVERNMENT PRESENTED PROOF OF CONSPIRACIES OTHER THAN THE ONE THE DEFENDANT RIVERA WAS CHARGED WITH.

The indictment herein was a blanket indictment covering not a single conspiracy but multiple conspiracies. At least three (3) separate conspiracies were testified to on the trial of this matter. Testimony was introduced into evidence in reference to a Sarmiento-Mazza conspiracy other testimony was introduced into evidence in reference to a BANDERA-MIGUEL conspiracy. Still further testimony was introduced into evidence in reference to a RAPHAEL-CABILLA conspiracy. The submission to the jury of acts of non-co-conspirators of RIVERA was prejudicial to the defendant RIVERA, so prejudicial as to preclude him from receiving an objective verdict on the matters that he was charged with.

In Kotteakos v. United States, 328 U.S. 750 (1946), the petitioner and 31 others were indicted for a single conspiracy to violate the National Housing Act. Nineteen (19) defendants were brought to trial: the guilt or innocence of thirteen was submitted to the jury. The petitioner and six others were convicted. The Supreme Court reversed petitioner's conviction, holding that the petitioner had suffered substantial prejudice from being convicted of a single general conspiracy by evidence which the Government admitted proved not one but eight or more, executed through a common figure. All the defendants had transacted business through the common figure, BROWN, but no connection was shown between them. The Court used the "wheel" metaphor to describe the conspiracies: separate spokes meeting in a common center, without the rim of the wheel to enclose the spokes.

The government admitted that not one but many conspiracies existed, but contended that the variance fell within the Harmless Error Statute, 28 U.S.C. § 391: the Court shall give judgment without regard to errors which "do not affect the substantive rights of the parties." But, the Court pointed out, the statute does not apply to all errors. "If the error is of such a character that its natural effect is to prejudice a litigant's substantive rights, the burden of sustaining a verdict will, notwithstanding this legislation rest upon the one who claims under it." H.R. Rep. No. 913, 65 Cong., 3d Sess., 1. "In the final analysis judgment in each case must be influenced by conviction resulting from examination of the proceedings in their entirety, tempered but not governed in any rigid sense of stare decisis by what has been done in similar situations. 328 U.S. at 762.

In such a case, an appellate court must consider the outcome...guilt in law, not guilt in fact.

And the question is, not were they right in their judgment, regardless of the error or its effect upon the verdict. It is rather what effect the error had or reasonably may have taken to have had upon the jury's decision. The crucial thing is the impact of the thing done wrong on the minds of other men, not on [the appellate judges] own, in the total setting.

...[I]f one cannot say, with fair assurance, after pondering all that happened without stripping the erroneous action from the whole, that the judgment was not substantially swayed by the error, it is impossible to conclude that substantial rights were not affected... If [the error had substantial influence], or if one is left in grave doubt, the conviction cannot stand.

328 U.S. at 765 (emphasis added)

The concept of "concern for the larger whole" in a single versus a multiple conspiracies questions had been discussed by the Second Circuit. In United States v. Peoni, 100 F2d 401 (2d Cir. 1938), the Court rendered its decision involving a conspiracy to possess counterfeit bills. PEONI sold counterfeit bills to REGNO, who sold them DORSEY. All three persons knew the bills were counterfeit. DORSEY was arrested for possession; then PEONI was arrested as an accessory to DORSEY'S possession and for the conspiracy to possess them. The Circuit Court rejected the Government's contention that an agreement existed between PEONI and REGNO "that DORSEY should have them from REGNO." 100 F2d at 403. PEONI knew that somebody besides REGNO might get them, but a conspiracy also imports a concert of purpose, and agains PEONI had no concern for the bills after REGNO paid for them". Id.

In United States v. Sperling, Docket #'s (2d Cir. 10/10/74), slip op at 5637, the defendants were convicted of conspiracy to violate federal narcotics laws and of several substantive counts. One count of error involved the material variance between the single conspiracy charged and the multiple conspiracies said to have been proven. On October 18th, a police officer observed co-defendant (1) enter a bar and grill. Parked nearby was a blue Pontiac, which had been otherwise identified. A few minutes later, two other defendants, DEL BUSTO and GARCIA, left the bar and grill and went to the car. GARCIA opened the trunk, removed a newspaper-wrapped package and handed it to DEL BUSTO, who placed it inside his jacket. DEL BUSTO got into another car and was arrested several blocks away. The package (containing cocaine) was found in his jacket. Meanwhile GARCIA returned to the bar and left with co-defendants (1) and (2). The three men went to the trunk of the same blue pontiac, from which co-defendant (2) took out a bag containing boric acid...the substance used to dilute cocaine. The circuit court held that the narcotics transaction of October 18, was insufficient to link DEL BUSTO and GARCIA to the larger conspiracy. "GARCIA'S mere delivery of cocaine to DEL BUSTO, under all the circumstances, is not the kind of single transaction which itself supports an inference of knowledge of a broader conspiracy on the part of both participants". Slip Op at 5668-69.

The admittance of evidence of other and separate conspiracies in which the defendant is not charged creates a great danger that the defendant will be unable to obtain a fair trial. It creates a spillover effect whereby evidence introduced of other narcotics conspiracies will be implanted in the minds of the jurors and spill over to their consideration of the instant defendant's guilt or innocence. It creates a bandwagon type mentality that says I hear evidence of massive quantities of drugs being sold for hundreds of thousands of dollars and since you're on trial here for conspiracy to import and sell and for the sale thereof, a plague on you I'm going to help put you in jail.

POINT III

THERE WAS INSUFFICIENT EVIDENCE TO ESTABLISH RIVERA'S
GUILT ON THE SUBSTANTIVE COUNT

The first point of appellant's brief contends that there is insufficient non-hearsay evidence to sustain the conspiracy count of the indictment. It would, therefore, follow that if there is insufficient non-hearsay evidence to sustain a conspiracy count, that there must be insufficient evidence to sustain a substantive count.

Though the law is that circumstantial evidence introduced by the government in the course of a narcotics trial may be sufficient to prove substantive violations of the narcotics laws, United States v. Agueci, 310 F 2d 817, 828 (2d Cir. 1962), Cert. den. 372 U.S. 959 (1963), the prosecution must still prove his case by a fair preponderance of independent evidence. United States v. Geaney, supra.

The government relies heavily on the Agueci case and those that followed it to sustain their claim that the evidence is sufficient to convict on the substantive count. However, in the instant case no narcotic substance or any substance that was a white powder was admitted into evidence or testified to as having been passed or received by the defendant RIVERA. Indeed, there was no testimony that the defendant RIVERA paid any money for any white powder substance. The only testimony introduced by the Government to sustain the substantive count was that ROBERTO RIVERA gave MIGUEL a bag full of money, and that subsequently the witness CANCIO himself received $16,000 for MIGUEL from the defendant ROBERTO RIVERA. This is far too remote to sustain the contention by the Government in Count Four of the indictment that on or the 19th day of May, 1971 the defendant did unlawfully and knowingly distribute and possess with intent to distribute approximately two or more kilograms of cocaine.

POINT IV

RIVERA, WHO DID NOT TESTIFY ON HIS OWN BEHALF, WAS PREJUDICED BY THE TESTIMONY OF A REBUTTAL WITNESS

The Government introduced the testimony of one REDONDO who gave testimony that RIVERA was engaged in other criminal acts, similar to this conspiracy, but outside of the scope of this conspiracy. This testimony concerned a period of time prior to the beginning of the conspiracy charged but was admitted on the issue of the defendant's mental operation, knowledge and intent. When RIVERA did not testify on his own behalf, this testimony, which in essence was rebuttal testimony, was not allowed. However, it had already been absorbed by the jurors and had to prejudice their thinking.

In United States v. Spangelet, 258 F.2d 338 (2d Cir. 1958), the defendant was convicted of smuggling and of a conspiracy charge. In cross-examination of the government's major witness, counsel for the defendant attempted to impeach the witness' testimony by questions regarding his interest in the matter and elicited an admission that his bail had been reduced from $50,000 to $1,000 after a conference with the prosecutor. In summary, the defendant's attorney referred to this testimony. In reply, an Assistant U.S. Attorney rebutted the inference. The Court found the prosecutor's conduct improper...he had testified to a fact without being under oath and without being cross examined. Furthermore, the Judge's instructions to the jury were insufficient to cure the error. "It left with the government the advantage improperly obtained...and since the point involved infected [the witness] credibility upon which case the government's case depended, we cannot say that the error was harmless". 258 F.2d at 343.

In the ^{recent} case of United States v. Torres, Docket # 1238 (2d Cir. 10/8/74) slip op at 5619, the defendant was convicted of conspiracy to distribute narcotics. The Second Circuit agreed with the appellant that the government's improper impeachment of a witness amounted to reversible error. The government called as a witness one ORTIZ, a co-defendant who had pleaded guilty and was awaiting sentence. Prior to his being called before the jury, a hearing was conducted which determined that ORTIZ could be called by the government as a witness and treated by the government as hostile. When an Assistant U. S. Attorney testified regarding a courtroom encounter between ORTIZ and the defendant, this extended beyond the scope of acceptable impeachment, since the defense had never questioned ORTIZ about this incident.

As applied to the instant case, the admission of this type of impeachment evidence is all the more prejudicial since the defendant RIVERA never took the stand on his own behalf, and the witness REDONDO did not testify as to any facts relative to the instant indictment. His testimony as to prior drug transactions had to be inflammatory and prejudicial.

POINT V

THE COURT'S REMARKS PREJUDICED THE DEFENDANT RIVERA

The Court made certain remarks during the trial, that in their setting, were highly prejudicial. The Court in ruling on a motion by Mr. RIVERA'S trial attorney stated the conversations about ANTHONY TORRES, to be binding upon the defendant RIVERA, must be shown to the satisfaction of the jury to be part of a conspiracy. The Court then went on to state that "the conspiracy we have here is what is called a chain conspiracy". (see transcript at p. 925). Though the Court attempted to correct it, the inference was there for the jurors.

Earlier, during testimony about the shipment of the narcotics in picture frames to New York City the Court itself at page 313 of the transcript pointed out that "they weren't sending up custard or hollandaise sauce."

Especially where drugs are concerned, remarks of this type have to influence the thinking of the jurors. In Ross v. United States, 180 F. 2d 160 the Court stated that in a jury trial in a criminal case the Judge should be most guarded in his comments so as to avoid any possible appearance of holding a personal opinion concerning the facts in issue. The Court in United States v. Jacquillon, 469 F. 2d 380 stated that the trial judge in a criminal prosecution must maintain an attitude of impartiality and avoid giving the impression that he believes the accused is guilty, otherwise there is risk of a judge's usurping the function of the jury because of the weight likely to be placed in his opinion. The Court has also held that the expression of opinion should not be one-sided. United States v. Ornstein. 355 F. 2d 222.

POINT VI

RIVERA'S CONSTITUTIONAL PRESUMPTION OF INNOCENCE WAS NEGATED BY BEING SEEN BY JURORS IN HANDCUFFS

On the second day of the trial at least one juror and both alternates saw the defendant RIVERA outside of the Courtroom wearing handcuffs. The juror and alternates were questioned by the Court. Juror # 9 and alternate # 1 stated that this would not influence their decision and were retained as juror and alternate. Alternate # 2 stated that it might influence her decision and was excused.

In Kennedy v. Cardwell, 487 F.2d 109, (6th Cir. 1973), cert. den. 402 U. S. 986, this point was discussed. There the Court said that because of the presumption of innocence, a criminal defendant is generally entitled to the indicia of innocence. He is entitled to the garb of innocence. Every defendant is entitled to be brought before the Court with the appearance, dignity and self respect of a free and innocent man. He is entitled to appear free from all shackles. The Court then traced this right historically, from Vergil and the Bible through the Magna Carta and great English scholars into our own jurisprudence.

Based upon this the defendant RIVERA did not have the indicia of innocence that he is entitled to.

POINT VII

FACTUAL ISSUES PRESENTED WERE SO CLOSE THAT THE PREVIOUS SIX POINTS SHOULD BE VIEWED IN COMBINATION

The facts as introduced into evidence by the Government against the defendant RIVERA were indirect and circumstantial and thus capable of interpretations that call for a verdict of not guilty. Be that as it may, the jury did indeed find said defendant guilty as charged. As the evidence was presented and the events did occur, even if no one point presented in this appeal constitutes reversible error, the total picture presented in the previous six (6) points do.

The defendant was prejudiced in many ways. He was prejudiced by the insufficiency of non-hearsay evidence, by the government's presentation of other conspiracies than the one he was charged with, by the testimony of a rebuttal witness though the defendant himself did not testify, by some of the Court's remarks, by being seen by a juror in handcuffs, to mention a few. It is staggering to think of the cumulative effect of all of these events on a juror's mind.

The Second Circuit dealt with this point in United States v. Kahaner, 317 F. 2d 459, (1963). There the Court is discussing appellant's final contention that even if no one matter alone calls for reversal, the points should be viewed in combination, that "that is particularly true with respect to a jury trial where there was such real basis for the existence of reasonable doubt and the consequences of a wrong verdict are so tragic." 317 F. 2d at 485. This Court went on to say that "the closeness of factual issues bears directly on the magnitude of error required for reversal." (ibid.)

In Knapp v. United States, 311 F. 2d 71 (5th Cir. 1962) the Court stated that "this court may and will, where the case as a whole presents an image of unfairness which has resulted in the deprivation of defendant's constitutional rights, reverse even though none of the claimed errors is sufficient in itself to require reversal..."

The entire atmosphere and conduct of this trial, taken as a whole, present a picture prejudicial to the constitutional rights of the defendant RIVERA, and are grounds for reversal herein.

2 there was or was not a conspiracy.

3 If, after discussing all the evidence in the 4 case, the totality of it, you come to the conclusion
5 that there was a conspiracy, then from that point on 6 anybody that is in the conspiracy is bound by the acts
7 and declarations of anybody that is in the conspiracy,
8 whether it is in their presence or not in their presence,
9 whether it is said by them, for them or anything else.
10 They are partners in crime.

11 So that before this conversation can be binding
12 upon Rivera, you must be satisfied that there is a con-
13 spiracy, that the objects of the conspiracy were to 14 violate the narcotics control law to the extent that 15 they were going to import into the United States drugs
16 illegally for the New York market and that he knowingly
17 was a part of that and he took a part in it and partici-
18 pated knowingly, that is, he didn't do it by mistake or 19 through inadvertence or error, but he did it knowingly 20 and that he was looking to further the object of the 21 conspiracy.

22 Now, the conspiracy we have here is what is 23 called a chain conspiracy. There are a number of kinds
24 of people involved in this. There are financial people
25 at the head of it who finance it; there are people who

United States Attorney

2 CHARGE OF THE COURT

3 (Cannella, J.)

4 THE COURT: At the outset, I want to 5 thank the jury for the patience with which they have 6 been listening to this case. And certainly they must 7 have a great deal of patience to hear so much talking
8 all in one day.

9 I want to thank the lawyers for the assist-
10 ance they have been to the court because they have from 11 time to time assisted me in various aspects of the law
12 in this case and on your behalf and on my own behalf I 13 thank them, both Mr. Littlefield and Mr. Schwartz and 14 Mr. Brown and the other part of the two-headed lawyer,
15 Mr. Krieger.

16 I was going to go into a greater discussion
17 of the facts, but since the lawyers have done it in 18 such precise fashion, and since they have indicated the 19 areas involved in their respective defenses, I don't 20 intend to go into the facts in any great detail. I
21 may mention facts from time to time, but the only reason
22 I am doing it is to assist you in understanding how to 23 apply the law to this particular area.

24 The case, of course, starts with an indict-
25 ment, and the indictment in this case contains four

APPENDIX C

1 eoа

1729

2 courts known as a conspiracy count and the other three are 3 substantive counts.

4 The defendants pleaded not guilty to these
5 charges and therefore issues arise here, questions of fact.

6 If they agreed on the facts, there would be 7 no need for a jury. Then the judge would decide both the 8 facts and the law. However, since they disagree, that is 9 why you have been selected and you are the sole and sovereign
10 judges of the facts. You are the only ones that can decide
11 what the facts are regardless of what the court says about 12 them or what the lawyers have said about them. It is 13 your recollection that counts.

14 You are also the sole judges of the credibility
15 of the witnesses. It is you who will make a judgment
16 as to which witnesses you will believe and how much of 17 their testimony you will believe.

18 It is your judgment on the evidence also, as 19 you consider it, how much of it you will accept and how 20 much of it you will disregard.

21 Questions of law, however, you must take

25

2 from the court and apply them to the facts as you find
3 them.

4 Now, we start out with the proposition that 5 a defendant in a criminal case is presumed by law to be 6 innocent and that presumption remains with him through-7 out the trial unless and until he is proven guilty of 8 the crime charged by credible evidence beyond a
9 reasonable doubt.

10 The burden of proving the defendant guilty
11 beyond a reasonable doubt rests upon the government and 12 this burden never shifts throughout the trial.

13 The law does not require the defendant to 14 prove his innocence or to produce any evidence. He 15 may rely upon evidence brought out on cross examination
16 of witnesses for the government. If the government
17 fails to prove a defendant guilty beyond a reasonable
18 doubt, it is your obligation to acquit him.

19 Now, in this particular case there are two 20 defendants that are on trial. If my recollection
21 serves me right, there are 14 defendants altogether in 22 the indictment. You will see the indictment because 23 you will get a copy of it when you go in to deliberate.
24 The only two that we are concerned with at this time
25 are the defendants Torres and Rivera.

2 In discussing their particular case you must
3 discuss them separately from one another. Each de-
4 fendant from the other. The mere fact that they are 5 sitting here on the same side of the table, and sometimes
6 one lawyer helped another lawyer out during the course
7 of the trial does not mean that they have a common
8 interest here. They are as apart as they can be and 9 they must be considered apart and your judgment must be 10 a separate judgment as to each.

11 In addition to that, there are a number of 12 charges and you must consider each charge. The first 13 one charges the both of them; the substantive counts
14 charge them singly. The second count, I believe,
15 charges Torres, the third count charges Torres, and 16 the fourth count charges Rivera. You will consider 17 each of those charges separately and render a separate 18 judgment on each charge.

19 Since the government has the burden of proof
20 it must prove the defendants' guilt by credible evidence
21 by a reasonable doubt before you may convict them.
22 The tool used in order to do this can be described as 23 evidence. Evidence can be described in a number of 24 ways.

25 The first describes it by quality and

2 quantity. By quality we mean credible evidence,
3 evidence that is believable. By quantity we mean
4 beyond a reasonable doubt.

5 That expression "beyond a reasonable doubt"
6 is not a very difficult concept to understand. A
7 reasonable doubt means a doubt that is based on reason
8 and must be a substantial rather than a speculative 9 doubt. It must be sufficient to cause a reasonably
10 prudent person to hesitate to act in more important
11 affairs of his life.

12 Now, evidence may also be described in 13 another fashion, and the subdivisions that I am using 14 in this particular area are as follows:

15 First, testimony. That means a person
16 comes here, takes the stand and describes to you what 17 he knows by the use of his senses. It includes any 18 natural inferences that flow from that testimony and 19 it includes anything that is brought out during the 20 course of that witness' testimony, whether it be on 21 cross examination or direct examination.

22 It also includes the exhibits in the case.
23 Now, it only includes those exhibits which have been 24 marked in evidence. The exhibits which have not been 25 marked in evidence are not evidence in this case and may

2 not be considered by you and you may not speculate as 3 to what is in them. Only the things that have been 4 introduced may be considered by you.

5 The third thing is stipulations. One that
6 comes to mind is the stipulation about the chemist.
7 The parties stipulated that he was a chemist and that 8 he is the exception to the ordinary witness, he can give 9 an opinion based on his expertise and his knowledge in 10 the particular area in which he is; he can tell you,
11 after he makes his various tests, what in his opinion
12 the substances are.

13 In this particular case he described, it
14 was agreed between the parties, stipulated that he made 15 a judgment here, an opinion that the narcotics or the 16 substances, rather, in question, that white powder in 17 question was in one case heroin and in the other case
18 cocaine.

19 In addition to that, the court many times
20 takes judicial notice of various things. They 21 are things which are so easily proven, they are common
22 knowledge, that the law requires no evidence be produced.
23 It simply takes judicial notice of them.

24 One of the things, for example, in this
25 case I take judicial notice of is that these locations

2 that were mentioned in Westchester Avenue, actually, al-
3 though the witness thought it was Westchester, it was 4 really Westchester Avenue in the Bronx, a bar up there,
5 that was in reference some testimony concerning the 6 defendant Rivera, that that is within the Southern 7 District of New York; that the other locations named in 8 Manhattan, El Quixote and so forth, that is also in the 9 Southern District of New York. That gives you the 10 authority to sit in this case because it is within the 11 confines of our district, the Southern District of New 12 York.

13 I also take judicial notice of the fact
14 that heroin is a prohibited substance. It may be that 15 a slight history of what has happened in this area might 16 be of assistance to you.

17 The narcotic problem in the United States
18 has not been a recent one, it goes back as far as the 19 '20s. At that time women apparently took this for a
20 periodic problem they have, to ease their suffering,
21 and they used large quantities of it and it was called 22 laudanum, which was an opium derivative. As a result 23 of it, strange to say, a lot of these ladies were the 24 first drug addicts, so Mr. Harrison, who was a member
25 of Congress, proposed a law which was called the Harrison

eo a

Narcotic Act. The aim and the object of it was to prevent this condition, so the way it was attacked was to proscribe and prohibit the smuggling of any opium derivative into the United States because opium is not grown in the United States, it must be grown elsewhere, and therefore any product concerning this must be imported.

9 So Harrison also proposed that there be a
10 tax on this and also that the substance be sold out
11 of the original bottle and so forth. It was 12 the first attempt to do something about this problem.

Now, as time went on the problem didn't ease, but it started to concern other segments of our population, and so you had Mr. Jones enter the picture, another legislator, quite a few years later, and here again he proposed in Congress that the problem be attacked in another fashion. His law also proscribed the illegal importation of drugs into the United States -- we call it smuggling, interchangeably used -- but it then said further: it said nobody may receive, conceal, buy, sell or facilitate the transportation of any such substance. So that was the second attack made on the problem, a major attack.

Now, that law, the way it was passed,

2 required a number of things to be proven before a
3 defendant could be convicted. One of them was, for 4 example, that the substance was illegally imported.
5 And, by the way, heroin itself, I take judicial notice
6 that heroin has no legal use in the United States what-
7 soever. There is no way of legally possessing
8 heroin.

9 It is a strange thing about heroin -- here
10 again we go back into the history -- heroin came 11 about this way: There is a substance called the 12 elixir of terpin hydrate with codeine, which you may 13 be familiar with if you get a cold, and this is a good
14 substance for a cold. Now, some German scientist
15 discovered that if you made this with heroin it was about 16 10 times more effective than with codeine, and it was 17 true, but the only trouble was that it was very highly 18 addictive. The good that it did was more than far
19 overshadowed by the bad that it did, so the government
20 here in the United States said no heroin in the United 21 States, and there is no way of getting heroin into the 22 United States and possessing it legally even today.

23 Now, the problem continued on because under 24 the Act it was required that before you could convict
25 a defendant in other areas, for example, involving cocaine

2 or other substances, you had to show that the defendant
3 knew that it was illegally imported. That was a
4 requirement and that is a requirement under one section
5 of our case here because on May 1st of 1971 the law
6 was changed and that particular law which required
7 knowledge on the part of the defendant that the sub-
8 stance was illegally imported was changed, and now
9 Congress attacks the problem this way: It says
10 we still forbid the illegal importation of narcotics
11 into this country. We also forbid, in addition to 12 that, distribution or possession with intent to distri-
13 bute certain what they call controlled substances.
14 I take judicial notice that in this case the controlled
15 substances include heroin and cocaine.

16 So I take judicial notice of these facts be-17 cause they are knowledge which has been in the books and 18 is known and can easily be established.

19 There are other stipulations which were 20 made by the parties and if you remember them you will 21 apply them to the case.

22 The last item that I would discuss with 23 you in this particular area, we are talking about the 24 versions of evidence, are these grand jury minutes and 25 certain reports and certain documents in which statements

2 appear. Now, those statements that appeared in 3 the grand jury minutes, which were read into the record,
4 have been agreed upon by the parties to in fact be part
5 of that record. You will consider it as evidence.
6 That also applies to those reports, parts of which were 7 read into the record.

8 Now, evidence also can be divided in another
9 way. It can be divided into what is called direct 10 evidence and circumstantial evidence. The law does 11 not make any distinction between these two kinds of 12 evidence. It simply requires that when you get all
13 through you are satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt,
14 either by direct or by circumstantial evidence or by a
15 combination of both of the defendant's guilt beyond a 16 reasonable doubt before you may convict him.

17 Now I will define what is meant by direct
18 evidence and what is meant by circumstantial evidence.

19 A defendant may be proven guilty by either
20 direct or circumstantial evidence. Direct evidence
21 is the testimony of one who asserts actual knowledge of 22 the fact, such as an eyewitness. Circumstantial
23 evidence is proof of a chain of facts and circumstances
24 indicating the guilt or the innocence of the defendant.
25 The law makes no distinction between the weight to be

2 given to either direct or circumstantial evidence.

3 It requires only that you, after weighing all the 4 evidence, must be convinced of the guilt of the de-
5 fendant beyond a reasonable doubt before he may be con-
6 victed.

7 Now, in order to evaluate what is important
8 in the case and what is not, there are certain things
9 which are not evidence which I must call your attention
10 to so that you can disregard them. They are not 11 part of the case. They are not evidence in the case.

12 The first I call your attention to is the 13 indictment. The indictment in this case is only 14 evidence that the grand jury made an accusation, period.
15 None of the facts that are recited in the indictment are 16 evidence. The evidence must come here in the courtroom
17 either by way of witnesses or by the other four or 18 five items that I have just recited to you.

19 Now, there were some questions asked, and 20 in asking the question it assumed some facts and there
21 were objections made to that question and I sustained
22 the objection. You may not use as evidence any 23 fact which was contained in a question unless it is proven
24 to your satisfaction in some other way during the course
25 of the trial.

2 If you recall a particular incident when it
3 did happen, I gave you the old saw example of the 4 question asked of a man: When did you stop beating
5 your wife? Now, the mere fact that that statement
6 contains the fact of a man beating his wife doesn't 7 prove that the man ever beat his wife, and so any of 8 these questions which were stricken, the facts in them
9 you will disregard them unless they were proven in some 10 way during the rest of the trial, the testimony that you
11 heard during the rest of the trial.

12 The comments of the lawyers -- and I might 13 say I think there have been a comment or two in this
14 case, both by the court and by the lawyers -- I say
15 to you that comments are not evidence. You are to 16 disregard them. None of the lawyers was sworn in -- 17 may be sworn at, but not sworn in -- and certainly the 18 court wasn't sworn in, so we did not testify and we did
19 not testify and we did not take an oath and none of this 20 is admissible and you are to disregard these comments.

21 Now, how do you find out where the truth
22 lies in the case? Well, Anglo-Saxon juries for many 23 years have used certain norms, and I will call some 24 of them to your attention so that you can be assisted 25 in arriving at the truth in this case.

2 The first thing is the demeanor of the wit-
3 ness. How did he appear to you on the stand? Was 4 he hesitant? Did he beg time by asking questions?
5 Did he shift around? In other words, use that same
6 fine common sense that you use in your everyday life in 7 matters of great importance to you. When you go to 8 buy a car and you start kicking the wheels and 9 slamming the door and other things, you also listen to 10 the salesman. How much attention do you pay to him
11 and what do you believe. The same if you went to buy
12 a house. All those important things that you do.
13 Use that same fine common sense that you do when you
14 do those things.

15 Of course, the interest of a witness is of 16 importance. There are so many things to be said
17 about these witnesses. Essentially, however, there
18 is really not that great number of witnesses to really
19 cause you a great deal of trouble because when you
20 get right down to it, you know, the witnesses actually 21 were not that great in numbers.

22 Of course, numbers don't really mean anything;
23 it is the quality of the testimony that means something.
24 But, for example, Redondo. Now, Redondo, I would
25 almost forget about him, that is about as much as I

2 feel about Redondo, because Redondo was allowed for one
3 specific purpose, and for the life of me I am amazed --
4 I haven't counted the pages, but here is a fellow, the 5 only reason I allowed his testimony was to show that 6 since there is mental operation involved here as far as 7 these defendants are concerned that are before you,
8 and some of them that are named in the indictment,
9 as to whether or not they were acting unlawfully,
10 knowingly and wilfully, which is mental operation --
11 this testimony was offered to show that they had previous 12 knowledge of this kind of activity and therefore they 13 couldn't be doing this by inadvertence or mistake or 14 in good faith. That was the only reason. That 15 was the only reason.

16 Actually, all that developed was that some-17 how or other -- and this wasn't even the purpose of the 18 testimony -- it was brought out on cross examination I
19 think that there was another way of smuggling in 20 demijohns. Well, that has got nothing to do with 21 this case whatsoever, nothing at all to do with it.

22 But here in the case of Redondo I think his 23 testimony is about 400 pages and about 80 pages have got 24 to do with his background, his record, what a crook he 25 was, how much he was in jail and all these other things.

2 But essentially we have him only for one narrow,
3 limited purpose. So we get down to the next fellow.
4 That was Korniloff, the agent.

5 What did he testify to? He was brought 6 in on the direct examination because somebody showed 7 somebody a picture, as I recall, and he was going to 8 identify that he gave him some pictures to look at.
9 That is what he testified there.

10 Then later on he was called for another pur-
11 pose during the course of the defendants' part of the 12 case and he was examined again. What are we 13 doing here at this point? We are looking into the inter-
14 ests of the people. What interest has Korniloff got 15 in this?

16 Redondo, of course, we know all kinds of 17 things about him. He is convicted, he has got all
18 kinds of bad things that he has done, and, of course,
19 all these things must be considered as to each 20 witness. That is why we are looking into these 21 particular witnesses, to discover what do we have to know
22 about him in order to evaluate him, to say whether he 23 is telling the truth or not.

24 So we look into the interests of Redondo.
25 We find out his terrible record and we know all about

2 that.

3 The agent, of course, as Mr. Schwartz
4 says, he is employed by the government, but I don't think 5 he himself is quarreling with his testimony, nor 6 with the agent's testimony of Stafford, III.

7 By the way, it is not unusual to have a
8 III. I have a III in my family, John Phelan, III.
9 Gee, I never heard of it, a Sicilian, John Phelan, III.

10 But, in any event, here he is here and he 11 is an agent so he is trying to do his job, right.

12 Then we have Mazza. Now, here we know
13 all about his background and we know all about his 14 deals, we know about the fact that he finally wound up
15 pleading to spitting on the sidewalk, to use a vulgar
16 expression, when he was charged with a very grave crime
17 of drugs. I think they let him plead guilty to false
18 papers or something like that. But, in any event,
19 we know his background, and considering his background
20 you will make a judgment as to his interest and how much
21 it affects his testimony.

22 Hector Santiago is an agent. He is in 23 the same position as Korniloff.

24 Wladimir Banderas -- here is what is called 25 a major crime man, a man that deals in large quantities

1 eoа

1745

2 of drugs and who has a record and everything else, all
3 these backgrounds have been brought out, lying and what-4 not. All these things you will consider in the 5 light of how much you are going to believe him.

6 Frank Ambio was an agent, and what he did
7 was identify the drugs.

8 Lorenzo Cancio, of course here is another
9 man who got a very, very seedy background and who had 10 been in drugs and who has been convicted and has this 11 promise from the government. You will consider that 12 and whatever interest that has in determining the 13 truth of his testimony.

14 Cosmo Magarelli, well, he is the man that 15 came in and said that the records from the picture frames
16 are here and he identified them. He certainly has 17 no interest in this case whatsoever that I am aware of.

18 Then you have the agent, Ellin, and, of 19 course, Stafford, and Mr. Schwartz says he has no quarrel
20 with it.

22

23

24

25

T3B pm 1 cos

2 Now, then, Mazza was reccalled and Korniloff was 3 recalled. So, as to each one of them you consider their 4 interest in weighing it and determining the credibility
5 of the witness.

6 Now, if any witness has falsely testified to 7 a material fact, you must disregard that portion of it
8 which is false. You may disregard the whole testimony.

9 Now, there are a lot of ladies on this jury and 10 I will give you an example of that. If you make an 11 omelet and you don't know how to properly make it, and 12 when this case is over I will tell you if you want to know,
13 and you get a bad egg in there, you are not going to 14 serve that omelet to your husband or whoever is home in 15 the family because it smells bad, it tastes bad and you
16 are just going to throw the whole thing away. That is 17 the material part which you must throw away.

18 On the other hand, if you burn a piece of toast,
19 you can just scrape off the part that is burnt and eat
20 the rest or give it to your husband. In any event, you
21 don't throw it away. That is the way that particular 22 rule works.

23 We have people here that are described in law
24 as accomplices. Now, an accomplice is one who voluntarily
25 participates in the commission or the planning of the crime.

2 In this particular case we have Mazza, Banderas, Cancio
3 and Redondo. Of course, Redondo is not an accomplice in 4 the sense that he is mixed up in this particular conspiracy
5 that we are trying here today, but his testimony must be 6 looked upon the same way that you look upon an accomplice's
7 testimony.

8 An accomplice's testimony must be closely
9 examined and it must be weighed with great care. If you
10 believe the testimony of an accomplice to be true beyond 11 a reasonable doubt, that testimony is sufficient to 12 convict a defendant even though it is not corroborated by 13 any other evidence.

14 Of course, in this case the United States
15 Attorney had a litany about corroboration. He had the 16 pictures, he had other evidence, he had the documents, he 17 had a lot of things, a lot of talk between each other 18 which he believed to corroborate one another. As far as 19 that goes, I don't give much weight to one accomplice
20 corroborating another one. That doesn't lend too much
21 to it, but you can consider all the evidence in the case
22 and all the circumstantial evidence in the case in deter-
23 mining how much of the accomplice's testimony you are going 24 to believe.

25 Now, some of the witnesses have been convicted

2 of crimes. The testimony of a witness may be discredited
3 or impeached by showing that he has been convicted of a
4 felony. The prior conviction does not render him
5 incompetent to testify. It merely reflects on his 6 credibility. It is your province to determine what 7 weight, if any, should be given to such conviction and 8 impeachment.

9 Now, there are also some statements which were 10 brought out what would be described in law as prior con-
11 tradictory statements. In this particular area you will 12 recall that on cross-examination many times prior state-
13 ments were called to the attention of the witness and it
14 was claimed by one party that that was a prior inconsistent
15 statement. On the other hand, the other lawyer said
16 that it wasn't and I said, look, it's going to be up to 17 the jury. They are going to decide on that.

18 Now, in this particular area the testimony of 19 a witness about a fact may be discredited or impeached
20 by evidence that at another time the witness made a state-
21 ment inconsistent with or contradictory of the witness'
22 present testimony. If you conclude that there are 23 inconsistencies between the witness' testimony here
24 and an earlier statement made by the witness out of court,
25 then you may reject the testimony given in court on that

2 point.

3 You do not, however, take the out of court
4 statement as establishing the true fact, but you, rather,
5 treat it only as nullifying the testimony already given
6 here in court.

7 If the prior inconsistent statement was made
8 under oath, then you may take such fact into consideration
9 in assessing the credibility of the witness while testifying
10 under oath in this court.

11 I will give you only one example of that.

12 I think you will remember some others. Cancio said that,
13 in fact, he did lie. He lied in the grand jury and he 14 lied in the case. As a matter of fact, Judge Pollack
15 called him a "blatant perjurer".

16 So that you will consider those statements given
17 at that time in evaluating his testimony.

18 We now come to the next phase of my exposition
19 of the law to you and this concerns certain definitions.
20 What I have done up to this point is, in effect, tell you
21 what evidence is, what evidence is not and how you evaluate 22 it. Now we move to some definitions because in this
23 indictment there are numbers of definitions and what I am 24 trying to do and trying to accomplish is to put them in 25 as simple English as we can so that you will understand

2 what those words mean because sometimes in law the words
3 don't mean what they mean in your every-day language.

4 Now, the first three that I would call your 5 attention to is the statement in the indictment that these 6 defendants acted unlawfully, knowingly and wilfully because,
7 you see, our whole system of government is predicated upon 8 the fact that we have willpower and we have the right to 9 do something or not to do it and since we have the right to 10 have willpower, then we are responsible for acts which we 11 wilfully do, which we ourselves wilfully do.

12 Now, in law "unlawful" means contrary to law
13 and in this particular case it means contrary to the 14 Federal narcotics laws and there are two involved because 15 you will recall I told you this indictment straddled
16 May 1st, 1971.

17 Before May 1st, 1971, it was Title 21, Section
18 173 and 174. That is the one which in explaining to 19 you the history of narcotics is the one which says that 20 you may not illegally import and, in addition to that, you
21 may not receive, conceal, buy, sell or facilitate the 22 transportation of drugs, narcotics.

23 Now, after May 1st, 1971, we have the other law
24 which also prohibits the illegal importation of drugs,
25 but in addition prohibits the distribution and possession

2 with intent to distribute narcotic drugs.

3 So, those are the two laws essentially that we
4 are talking about when we say "unlawfully".

5 The law also makes it a crime to conspire to do
6 that, which is separate and apart from the acts themselves,
7 and so we have that other element.

8 Now, by "knowingly" we mean to do something
9 voluntarily and freely, not in good faith, not by 10 inadvertence, not by mistake.

11 By "wilfully" we add what the Romans called 12 the mens rea, the evil intent, the bad motive. So that 13 if you act wilfully, you must act knowingly and voluntarily.
14 You must act freely, you must act not in good faith, not 15 by inadvertence nor in error and you must do it with a
16 bad motive, an evil intent.

17 Now, if these defendants are not in that state
18 of mind at the time these acts are committed, they may not 19 be convicted because that is an essential part of the 20 crime.

21 The words that we are concerned with here are 22 essentially "receiving and concealing" because, as I read
23 the second count of this indictment, although there are 24 other phrases in that law, what they are charged with is 25 "did receive, conceal and facilitate the transportation

1 os7

2 and concealment of a narcotic drug."

3 They are not charged -- rather Torres is not
4 charged in that count with selling or buying. He is 5 charged with receiving, concealing and facilitating the 6 transportation of. What I am doing at this time is 7 defining those words.

8 "Receive" has the same meaning that it has in 9 English, ordinary usage.

10 "Conceal" means to hide from view. It has the 11 same meaning that it has in English.

12 "Facilitate the transportation of", "transport"
13 means, of course, to remove from one place to another and 14 "to facilitate" is a Latin word, facile, which means to 15 make easy, less hard.

16 Now, we have some other terms here to define.

17 "Conspire", the term "conspiracy" has been 18 defined by Congress and essentially what it is is this,
19 it is a very short section:

20 "If two or more persons conspire to commit an 21 offense against the United States and one or more 22 such person does an act to effect the object of the 23 conspiracy, each shall be guilty of a crime."

24 That is the way "conspiracy" is defined.

25 I will give you the law of conspiracy in a

1 oss

2 minute because I am going to go into two sections of the 3 law, the law of conspiracy, and then some other concerning
4 the substantive offenses. I will define them further.

5 Now, there are two defendants that you are 6 trying in this case now before you and there are 12 others,
7 if my count is right, who were charged in this indictment.

8 Where there are two or more persons charged
9 with the commission of a crime, the guilt of one defendant
10 may be established without proof that all the defendants
11 participated in every act constituting the offense.

12 However, as I indicated earlier to you, you must give 13 separate consideration to each individual defendant and to 14 each separate charge against him.

15 Each defendant is entitled to have his case 16 determined from his own conduct and from the evidence which 17 is applicable to him.

18 Now, there is such a concept of what is called 19 "aiding and abetting". In other words, there is a law
20 which was passed by Congress which reads as follows:

21 "Whoever aids, abets, counsels, commands,
22 induces or procures the commission of a crime is 23 punishable as a principal."

24 In order to aid or abet the commission of a
25 crime, a person must associate himself with the criminal

2 venture, participate in it and try to make it succeed.
3 So that mere presence at a place where something is going
4 on or even knowledge that something is going on is not
5 sufficient. There must be this other element which I
6 have described to you, namely, the participation in it with 7 the object of having it succeed because mere association
8 and mere presence is not sufficient.

9 Under the old law the concept of possession was 10 important because you will recall I said to you the old
11 law, the Jones law, required not only that the substance
12 was illegally imported, but also that the defendant knew
13 that it was illegally imported.

14 Now, Congress passed what is called the pre-
15 sumption law and it said if it is proved that someone has 16 possession of something, then in the absence of an explan-
17 ation that possession is sufficient to show, No. 1, that 18 it was illegally imported and, No. 2, that he knew about it.

19 What do we mean by "possession"? Well,
20 possession is the concept which may be divided into two 21 ways. Actual possession where you physically have some-
22 thing manually that you have control over or constructive
23 possession, which means that you have the ability to do
24 something about it, to exercise dominion over it and to 25 make it move from one place to another.

2 It doesn't depend on ownership because you can 3 go to the Hertz-Drive-It-Yourself car and Hertz owns the 4 car, but when they turn it over to you, you have got 5 possession and they give you a key and, if you ask them,
6 they will give you two keys. So that if you want to give 7 one to your daughter or son he can use the car.

8 Now, you in possession of the key, with the 9 car standing out on the street, have constructive possession
10 over it because you have the ability to take the key, go
11 out there, start the car and get moving.

12 As a matter of fact, with the other key that 13 you have, you have given constructive possession to your 14 daughter and she can go out and do the same thing.

15 This does not depend upon ownership. It
16 depends upon the ability to exercise dominion over this 17 particular piece of property.

18 It can be joint possession. It doesn't have 19 to be sole possession. In a case where the woman gets 20 the one key she keeps it herself and she doesn't give it
21 to anybody else, she has sole possession.

22 In the case where she gives a key to her
23 daughter or another key that they gave her, they have 24 joint possession. So that in this particular case if 25 you find there is possession, then as to prior to May 1st,

1 os11

2 1971, while that law was in existence that had this 3 particular presumption in it, you may consider that the 4 party not only knew, but rather the fact is that the drugs
5 were illegally imported and that the defendant knew they 6 were illegally imported provided you find that particular
7 defendant had constructive or actual possession.

8 Now, in this case, of course, there is a great
9 deal of testimony that all the parties involved apparently 10 were aware that it came from South America; that it came 11 in these picture frames, which were sent in through 12 Customs, but aside from that you have this other element, 13 too, which can assist you in making a determination as 14 to that part of the case which is involved in the Sections
15 173 and 174 or the law which was before May 1st, 1971.

16 Now, the new statute after May 1st, 1971 uses 17 the word "distribute" and that word simply means to 18 change possession, to transfer something. A sale, for 19 example, would be in the nature of distribution. A gift
20 would be in the nature of a distribution. So that is 21 what is meant by those particular words.

22 Now, as far as the law of conspiracy is con-
23 cerned, we are now past the definitions and we are getting 24 into the law concerning the first count.

25 The defendants on trial have been indicted,

1 os13

2 together with others, for the crime of conspiracy.

3 I have already defined that term. Simply put, it is an 4 agreement to commit an illegal act in violation of Federal 5 laws, namely, one, the smuggling of heroin and/or cocaine
6 into the United States.

7 two, it is also charged that prior to May 1st,
8 1971, the illegal agreement concerned the receiving,
9 concealing or facilitating the transportation of conceal-
10 ment of heroin or cocaine and that after May 1st, 1971, it
11 concerned itself with the distribution or the possession
12 with intent to distribute controlled substances, namely;
13 heroin and cocaine.

14 The crime of conspiracy may be proven even 15 though the purposes of the conspiracy were not accomplished.
16 Here, of course, there is a claim that the purposes were 17 accomplished except for the last time when the narcotics
18 were seized.

19 The Government contends in this case that not 20 only was the agreement proved, but that the objects of the 21 agreement were, in fact, accomplished. A conspiracy is 22 a combination of two or more persons to accomplish an 23 unlawful purpose or a lawful purpose by unlawful 24 means.

25 It is not necessary that the persons charged

2 meet together, enter into an express agreement or a formal
3 agreement or that they state in words and writing what 4 the scheme was or how it was to be effected. It is 5 sufficient to show that they tacitly came to a mutual
6 understanding to accomplish an unlawful act.

7 We are, therefore, concerned with the mental 8 operation of these parties. In deciding whether or not 9 there was an agreement the law allows you to examine all
10 the acts and declarations of the parties and then make a
11 deliberation from such evidence whether or not, in fact,
12 the agreement existed. In determining whether such 13 agreement existed, you should consider the actions and 14 declarations of all the alleged participants.

15 Similarly, in determining whether a particular
16 defendant was a member of the conspiracy, you will consider
17 all the acts and declarations of the alleged participants.

18 To be a member of the conspiracy a defendant
19 need not have known all the other members nor all the 20 details of the conspiracy nor the means by which the objects
21 of the conspiracy were to be accomplished.

22 It is necessary, however, that the Government
23 prove by credible evidence beyond a reasonable doubt that 24 the defendant was aware of the common purpose, that he was 25 a willing participant with the intent to advance the

1759

2 purpose of the conspiracy.

3 Here you must be satisfied that the agreement
4 consisted of obtaining the narcotics from South America
5 and transporting them in picture frames to the United 6 States for sale in the New York market.

7 The extent of a particular defendant's participa-
8 tion in a conspiracy is not determinative of his guilt
9 or innocence. A defendant may be convicted of a 10 conspiracy even though he plays a minor role. His 11 financial stake, if any, in the venture is a factor to be 12 considered in determining whether or not he is a part of it.

13 If it is established by credible evidence beyond
14 a reasonable doubt that a conspiracy existed and that the 15 defendant was one of its members, then the actions and 16 declarations of other members of the conspiracy in or out
17 of his presence, done in furtherance of the objectives of 18 the conspiracy and during its existence, may be considered
19 as evidence against him.

20 When people enter into an agreement for an 21 illegal purpose, they become agents for one another.
22 However, statements of persons which are not in further-
23 ance of the conspiracy or statements which are made before
24 its existence or after its termination may be considered
25 only as evidence against the person making them.

2 One overt act is sufficient by any one or more
3 of the persons. The act can be a legal act. Others
4 need not join in it. However, the act must be done in 5 furtherance of the conspiracy.

6 Any one of the 20 acts, which are in the 7 indictment, are sufficient to satisfy this element of the 8 conspiracy and I will again discuss that with you when we 9 get to the indictment, which will be in a minute or so.

10 The Government alleges here that there was one
11 conspiracy. The defendants allege that there was a
12 multiple conspiracy. Before the Government can get a 13 conviction in this case, you must be satisfied that there
14 was a single conspiracy.

15 Now, in this particular area we can liken a 16 conspiracy to, say, the subway system. We know, for 17 example, or I think you know that there are some subways
18 that run, say, from 180th Street down to Coney Island.
19 We know that that is a project that transports people from 20 one place to another.

21 Now, there are all kinds of people involved in 22 this. There is the fellow up in the booth that makes 23 change. There are trackwalkers. There are engineers
24 on the train. There are motormen who run the train.
25 Then there are conductors inside the train. Down at one

761

2 end there is a place where they have an electronic device
3 for making sure the trains don't run into one another and,
4 of course, a fellow could be working on that system for 25
5 years up at 133rd Street and never know the man down in 6 Coney Island that's got the same job as he has.

7 He may never realize that you can get off at 8 42nd Street and take the shuttle and go over to the 7th
9 Avenue line. There are many elements involved in running
10 this kind of a railroad, as there are in a conspiracy, which 11 I have, in effect, mentioned to you as I went through this 12 law of conspiracy.

13 There is no need that they know one another.
14 There is no need they do every act that is concerned in 15 order to fulfill the conspiracy.

16 What is needed is that they are part of a single 17 venture which is trying to accomplish a purpose.

18 Now, we know that if a man is in business in 19 South America to sell drugs and he wants to get it up to 20 the United States, he must do it in some fashion. Therefore,
21 he needs somebody that will help in transporting it.
22 In this particular case in putting it into the picture
23 frames, we know that there must be somebody that is going
24 to receive it when it gets to the United States. It
25 just can't hang in mid air like the Flying Dutchman.

1 oslc

2 When it gets here somebody must take care of it. In this 3 case case it was Ruiz. He was the middle figure in 4 all of these transactions. He handled every one of them
5 as far as we can tell from the evidence.

6 Then, there must be people here who must take
7 it out. In this case it was Ruiz and give it to somebody
8 else. Now, the narcotics then must reach some other person
9 who in turn will take his place in the particular area in 10 which he is.

11 Now, it is not necessary for all these people to 12 know one another. They know that there must be somebody
13 in South America that puts the drugs up originally.
14 They know that there must be somebody that transports them
15 and, so, as you go down each level of this, there must be 16 inferences that you can draw. I don't suggest that you
17 have to, but I say that you possibly can draw inferences
18 that there are aware of all this activity.

19 Now, one of the arguments between the parties 20 here is is this a single conspiracy or is it a multiple 21 conspiracy? Before the Government can obtain a con-
22 viction in this case, they must satisfy you by credible
23 evidence beyond a reasonable doubt that it is a single 24 conspiracy. It is not all the same people involved all
25 the time, but it was one single conspiracy in the sense

2 that the scheme was thought out, it was planned to operate
3 in this fashion. People moved in and out of it as time
4 went on, but essentially it was the same scheme. That is 5 the Government's contention.

6 Mr. Schwartz, you remember, drew on the black-
7 board here three different conspiracies and a possible
8 fourth one. Well, it is up to you to make a judgment
9 which one this is.

10 If you find by credible evidence beyond a 11 reasonable doubt that a single conspiracy existed, as 12 charged in the indictment, and that during the existence
13 of that single conspiracy one or more overt acts alleged 14 was done by one or more of the co-conspirators in further-
15 ance of the conspiracy, proof of the conspiracy is complete.
16 It is complete as to each defendant found by you by 17 credible evidence beyond a reasonable doubt to have been 18 unlawfully, knowingly and wilfully a member of the con-
19 spiracy at the time the overt act was committed regardless
20 of which of the conspirators committed the act.

21 So that essentially is the law of conspiracy.

22 We will now take a five-minute recess at which 23 time we will go into the indictment, which I don't think 24 will take much longer and that will be the final exposition
25 of law in this case.

2 I will go through the indictment with you so
3 that you will be familiar with it and understand how to 4 approach the problem. We will take a five-minute recess.

5 Please don't discuss the case in the meantime.

6 (Recess.)

5 7 (In open court; jury present.)

8 THE COURT: We now come down to the closing
9 part of this and some of this may sound repetitious to you
10 and I intentionally do it because I know that you are not 11 lawyers and these concepts you have probably heard for the 12 first time when you came into the courtroom so that it is 13 done intentionally so you may really understand what your 14 obligations are in reference to this case.

15 The indictment is this document, which I am
16 holding in my hand, and which your forelady will get a copy
17 of and which you may all examine in the jury room.
18 I want to explain to you essentially how it is drawn up
19 and what is necessary before you may convict either defendant
20 on any other chartes that they are charged with before 21 you.

22 Have you got a clean copy of the indictment?
23 I asked him to show it to you before. Did the defendants
24 look at it?

25 MR. SCHWARTZ: No, your Honor.

1 os21

2 THE COURT: I took out overt act No. 3, which I
3 struck out, and the rest of it is the same.

4 MR. SCHWARTZ: It appears to be all right.

5 THE COURT: No. 3 isn't in there, is it?

6 MR. SCHWARTZ: No, sir.

7 THE COURT: Give it to the forelady then.

8 Thank you.

9 MR. SCHWARTZ: I didn't show it to Mr. Brown.

10 MR. BROWN: I will take the representation of 11 Mr. Schwartz.

12 THE COURT: Give it to the forelady.

13 If you will look at this indictment, on the 14 front page you will notice it says "Count 1. The grand 15 jury charges . . ." and the named defendants are up at the 16 top.

17 Is there more than one of these copies?

18 MR. LITTLEFIELD: We have a whole stack of copies,
19 your Honor, but they are faint but I think they can be read.
20 They are very faint, your Honor. I think they can be read.
21 They have overt act No. 3 out.

22 THE COURT: Do those have No. 3 out?

23 MR. LITTLEFIELD: Yes, No. 3 is out.

24 THE COURT: He makes such a representation,
25 Mr. Schwartz and Mr. Brown, do you accept that?

2 MR. SCHWARTZ: I do, your Honor.

3 MR. BROWN: Yes, your Honor.

4 THE COURT: Hand those around so you can look
5 at them while I am going through this.

6 Now, you will notice at the head there are 14
7 defendants there and we are trying only two and they are 8 the only ones you are concerned with. You don't have to 9 make any judgments as to anybody else.

10 Then, it says, "Count 1. The grand jury
11 charges . . ." and, as I warned you before, this is not 12 evidence. It is only an accusation. The defendants
13 have denied it and they have put to issue every material
14 fact.

15 Then, the first sentence starts:

16 "From on or about the 1st day of July 1970
17 and continuously thereafter up to and including the 18 date of the filing of the indictment."

19 The date of the filing of the indictment is in 20 May 1974, the exact date I don't have.

21 What is the exact date?

22 MR. LITTLEFIELD: March 9, 1974.

23 THE COURT: March or May?

24 MR. SCHWARTZ: May 9, 1974, your Honor. I am
25 almost positive.

767

2 THE COURT: I don't think it is March.

3 May 9th, 1974.

4 That means that the Government has to prove that 5 these acts, which they are charging, happened in that 6 period. It doesn't have to go from the beginning to the 7 end, but it must be within those two periods. That is 8 the first thing you must find.

9 MR. LITTLEFIELD: It is May, your Honor.

10 THE COURT: All right.

11 Then, it says the number of defendants and it
12 names these two defendants as well as others.

13 Then it goes on to say that some people were 14 conspirators and some people were unknown to the grand 15 jury.

16 Then we come to the first legal term I defined
17 for you, "unlawfully, intentionally and knowingly" so that 18 means against the Federal statute, namely, the narcotics
19 control law.

20 The intention must be something they do freely
21 and voluntarily, it mustn't be by accident. It must be 22 specifically intended by them.

23 "Knowingly" means of course, in the same vein,
24 namely, that they did it voluntarily and not through 25 mistake or inadvertence. However, this concept here

1 os24

2 includes the concept of the three words together that
3 they must be acting with a bad motive and an evil intent.

4 So, then, the next combination of words are
5 essentially what "conspire" means, to combine, conspire,
6 confederate and agree. That is the conspiracy charged.

7 What they are charged with conspiring to violate
8 are certain sections, the numbers of which appear on the 9 bottom there.

10 The first two of them, 173 and 174, are the 11 old law. All the others, except Title 2, if it is here,
12 I don't know if it is in here, no, it isn't in here, all 13 the others are the new law, so that is what they are 14 charged with conspiring. That is essentially the con-
15 spiracy charge right on the first page. That's it.

16 Now, then, we go from Paragraph 2 through 17 Paragraph 6(c). These are the means by which the con-
18 spiracy was to be accomplished.

19 Now, the Government doesn't have to prove all
20 the means. It has to prove at least one means that all
21 of you agree on. You have to be unanimous on the means so
22 it can be any one of the means starting with Paragraph 2
23 and going through 6(c).

24 For example, the first one concerns No. 2.
25 It is the old law under 173, smuggling into the country.

1 os25

1769

2 Paragraph No. 3, the means, still the old law,
3 prohibits the receiving, concealing or facilitating the 4 transportation or concealment of.

5 No. 4 means is the new law which prohibits the 6 smuggling of heroin or cocaine into the country.

7 No. 5 is also the new law and that prohibits the 8 distribution and possession with intent to distribute.

6 9 No. 6 concerns a number of other means. For 10 example, (A) talks about Yolanda Sarmiento and Banderas
11 and that activity.

12 (B) is Lopez and concerns buying in the United 13 States.

14 (C) concerns Torres, Rivera and Cancio.

15 The Government, as I indicated before, doesn't 16 have to prove all of these means. The proof of any one
17 of them to your satisfaction by credible evidence beyond
18 a reasonable doubt is sufficient, but I again stress that 19 you must all agree on the means.

20 The Government, of course, contends that they 21 have proven every one of them, but you do not have to 22 find every one of them. One is sufficient if you all
23 agree on that particular means.

24 Now we come to the overt acts. It says:

25 "In pursuance of this conspiracy and to effect

1 os26

2 the objects, the following overt acts were 3 committed."

4 I am not going to go over them, but it is only
5 necessary for the Government to prove one of those but 6 all of you must agree on at least one. There must be 7 unanimous agreement on at least one.

8 The Government here again contends that they 9 have proven every one of them.

10 I have removed one of them from your consider-
11 ation so there is a jump between 7 and 9. I have removed 12 No. 8 so you don't have to consider that one at all. You
13 don't even have it before you.

14 If you find, as far as this conspiracy count
15 is concerned, these elements which I have just gone over
16 with you by credible evidence beyond a reasonable doubt,
17 then it is your obligation to convict the defendant that 18 you are considering at the particular time. Since this 19 concerns both defendants, you will do it one at a time 20 separately and consider the evidence separately as to 21 each.

22 If you find that any one or more or all of these
23 elements have not been proven by the Government by cred-
24 ible evidence beyond a reasonable doubt, it is your 25 obligation to acquit the defendant you are considering.

2 Here you will consider, as I indicated before, each one
3 separately.

4 Now we get to Count 2. That is substantive
5 count. That is separate and apart from the conspiracy
6 and you must find these elements before you may convict
7 the defendant Torres on the first count.

8 You will find here again "The grand jury
9 charges . . ." and, as I said, that is only an accusation, 10 "that on or about the 12th day of January 1971 in the 11 Southern District of New York" -- and you must find that 12 it was on or about that day and that it was in this 13 district -- "the defendant Torres, together with Lopez
14 and Franco" who we have been calling Miguel Aspilche,
15 "the defendants, unlawfully, wilfully and knowingly..."

16 Here again those three words I have explain to 17 you before and you are aware of what they are.

18 "Did receive, conceal and facilitate the 19 transportation and concealment of a narcotic drug,
20 to wit, approximately 20 kilograms of a narcotic
21 drug."

22 Now here, of course, the Government doesn't have 23 to prove all of those four things. They don't have to 24 prove that he received it, that he concealed it and that 25 he facilitated the transportation or concealment of it.

1 os28

2 Any one of those is sufficient. That is in the dis-
3 junctive.

4 Now, the question of whether it is narcotic
5 drugs. That must be determined by you from the evidence
6 in the case. The drugs weren't seized at the time and,
7 therefore, the chemist never got a chance to analyze them,
8 but you know what the dealings were between the parties
9 who had shipped this drug. You know that on some 10 occasions some of them tasted it and on other occasions
11 tests were made and on other occasions it was described 12 as a white powder.

13 We know that the amounts of money involved were 14 large sums of money and so from all the evidence in the 15 case in this particular area you will determine whether or 16 not, in fact, they were dealing in a narcotic drug.

17 It says:

18 "After the said narcotic drug has been imported
19 into the United States contrary to law, knowing that 20 the narcotic drug had been imported and brought into 21 the United States contrary to law in that the import-
22 ation of said narcotic drug into the United States,
23 except in such quantities" and so forth "for medical 24 purposes" and that is the end of that particular 25 thought.

1 os29

2 Now here you have got to go into that discussion
3 that I told you about, actual and constructive possession.
4 If you don't feel there is sufficient evidence in here
5 to show that these defendants knew this was coming from 6 South America and so forth, then if you find that that 7 doesn't satisfy you, you may consider whether or not they 8 had actual or constructive possession.

9 Of course, when you have multiple people acting,
10 they don't all have to do the same thing as I explained to 11 you earlier in my remarks. So that if you find that the 12 Government has satisfied You as to each of these elements
13 in Count 2 beyond a reasonable doubt by credible evidence 14 as to the defendant Torres, you should convict the defend-
15 ant Torres.

16 On the other hand, if the Government has failed
17 to prove any one or more or all of these elements as far 18 as this defendant Torres is concerned, then it is your 19 obligation to acquit him.

20 Counts 2 and 3 are exactly alike, but one deals
21 with Anthony Torres and the other deals with Roberto
22 Rivera.

23 MR. BROWN: Your Honor, No. 4.

24 MR. SCHWARTZ: 3 and 2 are alike.

25 THE COURT: 3 and 2 are the same, yes. I stand

1 os30

2 corrected.

3 MR. LITTLEFIELD: 3 and 4, your Honor.

4 THE COURT: 2 I just got through with. That 5 was 173 and 174.

6 Now, what I am saying is 3 and 4 are based on

7 the same statutes and they are based on the new law.

8 There is no need there for the defendants to know that 9 it was illegally imported under that statute. What the 10 Government must prove is as follows:

11 That on or about the 19th day of May, in Count
12 3, 1971, in the Southern District of New York, and you
13 must find that as a fact, the defendant Torres, together
14 with the others, Lopez and Miguel Aspilche, unlawfully,
15 intentionally and knowingly did distribute and possess
16 with intent to distribute a Schedule 2 drug.

17 I tell you that heroin and cocaine are a 18 Schedule 2 controlled drug. The quantity involved is 19 10 kilograms so that here again you must find each one of 20 these elements by credible evidence beyond a reasonable 21 doubt before you may convict the defendant Torres.

22 On the other hand, if you find that the Govern-
23 ment has failed to prove any one or more or all of those 24 elements, then you must acquit the defendant.

25 The same discussion applies to Count 4 with

1 os31

2 reference to the defendant Rivera. Here again the date
3 is the same, May 19th, 1971, and the other elements are the 4 same.

5 Now, in this regard if you find that there was 6 a conspiracy and the conspiracy as charged by the Govern-
7 ment, then anybody that is in that conspiracy is respons-
8 ible for a substantive offense committed by any co-
9 conspirator committed in furtherance of the conspiracy
10 even though that party does not participate in the sub-
11 stantive offense or have any actual knowledge of it.

12 You must be satisfied beyond a reasonable
13 doubt, however, one, that the substantive offense was, in 14 fact, committed by one or more members of the conspiracy.

15 Here it is alleged that the one that was active
16 in this particular area was Miguel Aspilche and that is 17 the contention of the Government.

18 Of course, the defendants' position is otherwise.
19 You will have to make the judgment yourself on that.

20 The next thing is that the defendant, whose 21 guilt you are considering, was then a member of the 22 conspiracy, so if these defendants were not members of 23 the conspiracy and you have determined that, then, of 24 course, would not rub off on him and they would not be 25 responsible in these counts.

1 os32

2 The third thing you must find is that the act,
3 which constituted the offense, was done in furtherance
4 of the conspiracy. Of course, that you will have to 5 determine from the date and the incidents that surround
6 these particular events.

7 So that concludes the indictment. There are 8 a few more remarks that I make before I consult with the 9 lawyers. They are very simple remarks.

10 They are common sense. They are, in effect,
11 telling you to live up to your oath as a juror.

12 The first is that sympathy and bias play no
13 part in this case whatsoever.

14 The second is that possible punishment in this 15 case is of no concern of yours whatsoever. That is the 16 concern of the Court in the event it comes to pass, but 17 that can't help you decide the facts at all because punish-18 ment has nothing at all to do with what the facts were.

19 The next thing is that your verdict must be 20 unanimous, Madam Forelady, on all of these counts. In other 21 words, when you come back again with the jury, you will be 22 asked: Have you reached a verdict? and when you report
23 that you have, then you will be asked as to Count 1, the 24 conspiracy count, how do you find and you will report
25 whether you find guilty or not guilty, but it must be

1 os33

1777

2 unanimous.

3 The same thing applies to the three substantive
4 counts, the same kind of verdicts, either guilty or not
5 guilty, but they must be unanimous.

6 All the verdicts must be unanimous. Is that 7 clear?

8 As Mr. Schwartz and other lawyers, I think they 9 all suggested it to you, if they didn't do it actually,
10 by inference they did, if there comes a time when you have 11 a dispute between yourselves as to what was the evidence
12 in the case, it has all been transcribed and it is all in 13 written form right now so that any time you want any portion 14 of it read to straighten out any point that comes up in 15 your discussions, please tell us the name of the witness
16 you are concerned about, whether it is on direct or cross-
17 examination. In other words, pinpoint it as best as 18 you can and we will then have it read to you so that you
19 determine the facts yourselves.

20 Now, I have one last discussion with the 21 lawyers before I give you the case. I may say this:

22 That if there are any communications that are 23 to come to the Court, they must come through your forelady
24 and they will be in writing and put down as clear an 25 exposition of what you want to know in writing as you can

1 os34

2 and then she will seal it and give it to the marshal who
3 will give it to me and I will answer it for you.

4 If you will just excuse me we will have one last
5 talk with the lawyers.

6 (At the side bar.)

7 MR. SCHWARTZ: Could we go inside?

8 THE COURT: Yes.

9 (In open court.)

10 THE COURT: Apparently they think they are going
11 to talk loud so I will take them inside so you can't hear
12 this. This is a discussion on the law.

13 (In the robing room.)

14 THE COURT: We will start in with the exceptions
15 first of the defendant Torres.

16 MR. SCHWARTZ: All right.

17 If your Honor please, I most respectfully except 18 to that portion of your Honor's charge that failed to 19 marshal the evidence in this case.

20 THE COURT: Do you want me to marshal the evi-
21 dence?

22 MR. SCHWARTZ: Just hear me out.

23 THE COURT: Because I have got it written out
24 and I will read it all over again, but it is subject to 25 that criticism which you made with Mr. Littlefield that all

1 os35

2 I will have is the Government's case.

3 MR. SCHWARTZ: Your Honor, my problem is this:

4 That is exactly the problem. That is the 5 do for inherent, of course --6 THE COURT: You either want me to marshal the 7 evidence or you don't. I am willing to marshal the 8 evidence. I have it written on six pieces of paper, and 9 I will marshal the evidence if you want me to.10 MR. SCHWARTZ: I would want you to providing you
11 marshaled it both with regard to redirect and cross-
12 examination of the various witnesses who testified. Other-
13 wise, no.14 THE COURT: I wrote it out and I got what I think 15 is both sides of this thing and if you want to hear that,
16 that is well and good. I will tell them it.17 MR. BROWN: I will take an exception to that,
18 Judge.19 THE COURT: To me it is kind of silly because 20 the only evidence in the case is the Government's witnesses.21 MR. BROWN: I think that is dangerous. That 22 shows a preponderance of evidence.23 THE COURT: That is exactly why I didn't do it.
24 I can understand it if the 14 defendants were 25 in the case and the 14 defendants were contesting the case

1 os36

2 and then you had a confusion as to who was the importer,
3 who was the exporter, who was in this vein of it, but 4 here are two allegedly major purchasers. That is all
5 they are supposed to be, nothing more and nothing less.

6 MR. SCHWARTZ: In connection with what your Honor
7 told the jury about inferences to be drawn from the 8 evidence, I take exception to that part of your Honor's
9 charge and I would ask your Honor to charge this jury that 10 if there are two inferences to be drawn --

11 THE COURT: Tell them what happened in our 12 District on that one. The Second Circuit does not 13 approve of that.

14 MR. SCHWARTZ: You are going to tell me. You
15 don't seem to get the message I'm trying to get across to 16 you. Does this look like my handwriting to you?

17 THE COURT: Then he's forgotten.

18 MR. KRIEGER: It is not mine either.

19 THE COURT: It is Senor Torres.

20 MR. SCHWARTZ: Two inferences to be drawn from a 21 given set of facts, and the inference which is most 22 favorable to the defense must be drawn by the jury.
23 I would ask your Honor to charge that.

24 MR. BROWN: I will join in that, your Honor.

25 THE COURT: I will deny that. What I mean by

2 that is this:

3 That I am granting the exception, but I am
4 denying the charge.

5 MR. SCHWARTZ: Yes, sir.

6 Your Honor, I take exception to that part of 7 your Honor's charge as it dealt with circumstantial
8 evidence.

9 MR. BROWN: Likewise, your Honor.

10 THE COURT: Your exception is noted.

11 MR. SCHWARTZ: I respectfully request your Honor
12 to charge with circumstantial evidence, that circumstantial
13 evidence must be accepted only if it precludes all other 14 inferences save that of the guilt of the defendant based 15 upon proof beyond a reasonable doubt.

16 THE COURT: The exception is noted and the 17 request is denied.

18 MR. BROWN: I will take that same exception.

19 THE COURT: All right.

20 MR. SCHWARTZ: Your Honor, I am not quite sure 21 what you told this jury about the failure of the defendants
22 to testify.

23 THE COURT: I didn't say a word and I will say
24 it. I just slipped up on that.

25 MR. SCHWARTZ: That is why I wanted to bring

1 os38

2 that up.

3 THE COURT: Do you want me to say it?

4 MR. BROWN: Of course.

5 THE COURT: Sometimes it stresses the point that 6 he didn't take the stand.

7 MR. SCHWARTZ: What your Honor usually does, I
8 would like in addition is to perhaps include the language
9 that a defendant may not testify because of lack of knowl-
10 edge of the language, lack of education or fear of speaking
11 before a group of individuals like a jury.

12 THE COURT: Well, I decline to do that, but I
13 will give the statement that he does not have to take the 14 stand. The fact that he did not take the stand cannot 15 be used against him and there is no presumption or infer-
16 ence of guilt that arises from such conduct.

17 MR. SCHWARTZ: Your Honor, with regard to the 18 second count, it appears that since cocaine is in the 19 second count that your Honor --

20 THE COURT: I know what you are going to say
21 and I tell you now I will do it, but I purposely didn't 22 do it because the quantity was such a large amount that I
23 think it is killing a dead horse. If you want to hear it,
24 I will do it.

25 MR. SCHWARTZ: There is one more thing along

1783

2 those lines, your Honor. It is my understanding that
3 in order to call the presumption under the old law into 4 play that the Government has to establish possession by 5 clear and convincing evidence and in this case the 6 possession, as it exists, would only be established through
7 actually a hearsay declaration, which rightly admitted
8 under the conspiracy count should not be admitted under 9 the substantive count.

10 This is one of the problems and one of the 11 quarrels I have with the Pinkerton situation as it applies
12 in this particular case.

13 THE COURT: I understand that.

14 MR. SCHWARTZ: Your Honor, I would also say to 15 your Honor that I would ask your Honor and I would except 16 to that portion of your Honor's charge concerning member-
17 ship in the conspiracy and as your Honor to include or 18 amplify that to this jury and tell them that in determining 19 whether or not an individual is a member of the conspiracy
20 that the jury should only consider the acts and declarations
21 of that individual and his acts and conduct as it may 22 relate to other members of the conspiracy.

23 THE COURT: I have already ruled on that in your 24 requests, but I will rule on it now and deny it now also.

25 MR. BROWN: Exception.

1 os40

2 MR. SCHWARTZ: Your Honor, now I would like to
3 go back to the whole business of multiple conspiracies.
4 This is my sheet and now I can cover my own.

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MR. SCHWARTZ: Your Honor, I have to most 7 respectfully state to your Honor that in my opinion what
8 your Honor said to this jury about multiple conspiracies
9 is somewhat similar to the all or nothing charge that I
10 feel the Circuit has condemned in the Kelly and other 11 cases of similar nature.

12 The facts of this case are somewhat unique.
13 I think it is somewhat unique that we have in this District
14 Court at this time so many actual core members of the 15 conspiracy, as I feel they exist, that have come here to 16 testify.

17 I asked your Honor before the charge
18 was given earlier this morning to consider the fact that 19 this jury could consider, A, that Miguel Aspilche had 20 withdrawn affirmatively from the Sarmiento, et cetera
21 conspiracy and that he did form another conspiracy or 22 another group, if you don't want to use the language
23 "conspiracy", with Mr. Vladimir Banderas and that ultim-
24 ately I think the evidence is clear, even by Mr. Little-25 field's own admission, that there came a point in time when

1785

2 Mr. Mazza somehow hooked himself into another conspiracy
3 involving people in France, this Mr. Condemine, et cetera,
4 and they began a whole new importation scheme into the 5 United States even though there is a point in time when 6 Mazza goes back to Sarmiento with the 18 kilograms of 7 heroin.

8 THE COURT: The last seizure, yes.

9 MR. SCHWARTZ: But, nevertheless, the proof in 10 this case establishes an independent or another group that 11 Mazza goes in to separate and apart from Sarmiento.

12 Now, it is an unfortunate thing that these people
13 who are possessed of such enormous resources and devices
14 have connections all over the world, but that is not the 15 defendant's fault. The Government could have elected to 16 narrow the scope of this conspiracy and proceed upon much
17 more narrow terms more closely related to the evidence.

18 THE COURT: I see there is a central figure
19 here, Ruiz. There is a central buyer here, Aviles.
20 The seller here is Sarmiento and Mazza so you are talking 21 about, you know, that's like the guy saying, taking the 22 shuttle to Grand Central, from Grand Central to the west
23 side, that that breaks up the conspiracy. It is there
24 just as big as it was before.

25 MR. SCHWARTZ: Your Honor, I think this is the

1 os42

2 point that we don't agree upon. Your Honor, I can under-
3 stand the rationale of persons entering, leaving and so
4 forth. That is easy.

5 I can understand that and I could understand
6 probably when Congress drafted the conspiracy law and when
7 the Circuit started to interpret it they never had a situ-
8 ation that I know of or that I can find in the record that 9 is so closely related to the nucleus of the conspiracy.

10 That is why they talk about all these secret
11 meetings. There is nothing secret about what was going 12 on here. There people knew everything that was going on 13 here. That is why Banderas can come in and tell us, 14 I had nothing to do with Sarmiento. Sarmiento had 15 nothing to do with me.

16 THE COURT: I don't want to elongate this, we 17 are going to be a long time to start with, and what I intend 18 to do is keep them here until about 10 o'clock and if they 19 don't agree I will sequester them, so I think we ought 20 to get to them because I think you have stated the basis
21 of your objection.

22 I am only talking about this one here, the 23 multiple and the single conspiracy, and I take your 24 exception. I note it, but I refuse to charge any further 25 on it.

2 MR. SCHWARTZ: There is one thing I think
3 Mr. Krieger asked me to point out because I think he picked
4 it up and I wasn't sure.

5 Did your Honor tell this jury that I had 6 contended that there were three, if perhaps not four,
7 conspiracies?

8 THE COURT: That is what I thought I did.

9 MR. SCHWARTZ: I did, too, but what Mr. Krieger
10 pointed out, I'm not quite sure that I heard it that way,
11 that is why I am asking, did your Honor say, in order to 12 find the defendant Torres guilty they have to find if he 13 participated in one?

14 THE COURT: In this single conspiracy that the 15 Government charges. That is what I said.

16 MR. BROWN: If there is a single conspiracy.

17 THE COURT: That is what I am saying.

18 MR. SCHWARTZ: If they find, on the other hand,
19 that there were, in fact, three or four separate conspir-
20 acies, they must find him not guilty.

21 THE COURT: That was the inference.

22 MR. SCHWARTZ: I would merely ask you to just 23 put that language, that if they find, in fact, there were 24 three or more conspiracies operating --

25 THE COURT: That is not my thought either. You

2 had that thought this morning, too, and I told you that
3 I could see there could be two or three other offshoots
4 of this thing and still in all a defendant still be mixed
5 up in a single conspiracy in addition to any other activity
6 he had with the others.

7 MR. SCHWARTZ: Don't you have a terrible prejudice
8 here then, your Honor? Don't you have a terrible spill-
9 over that would never come in if these counts were severed?

10 I am not talking just about a better chance
11 of beating the case. I am talking about real prejudice
12 to the defendant by way of evidence.

13 MR. KRIEGER: Could I violate the two-headed 14 rule?

15 THE COURT: Yes.

16 MR. KRIEGER: Your Honor, the way I heard that 17 portion of your charge, it sounded to me as if your Honor
18 had instructed the jury that if they found one of the three 19 or four conspiracies to which Mr. Schwartz alluded in his 20 argument, they could find the defendant guilty. I don't 21 think you intended that.

22 THE COURT: No, what I said, in effect, was that 23 Mr. Schwartz contends there are three or four conspiracies, 24 three conspiracies and an offshoot to make it four.

25 Now, of course, if there are multiple conspir-

1789

10 That was the intent of it and that is what I
11 think I said to them.

12 MR. BROWN: I don't think that is what we 13 intended. What my impression was, and I may be wrong,
14 is that if the jury finds that there is more than one 15 conspiracy and there are multiple conspiracies, then they 16 cannot find --

17 THE COURT: That isn't the law.

18 MR. BROWN: Unless they pin him down to one
19 specific thing.

20 THE COURT: It was worse than this case that 21 went up on appeal. If they find that he is still in the 22 conspiracy, which involves Sarmiento and Mazza and all 23 these other people, regardless of what he has done with 24 anybody else and regardless of any other conspiracy proven,
25 he is still stuck with this one.

2 MR. BROWN: The point is this:

3 If there are three separate conspiracies, then
4 there is no conspiracy as the Government alleges.

5 THE COURT: If he is still in the one the Govern-
6 ment alleges that was originally started and the others
7 are offshoots of it, he is still stuck and still in it.

10 8 MR. BROWN: If they are offshoots. Suppose they 9 are all individual conspiracies.

10 11 If I'm in business with you and then I go in business for myself, your customers are not liable --

12 THE COURT: I think you have made your point.
13 You can argue from this point on with this multiple and 14 single conspiracy, but I think we ought to go on to some-15 thing else.

16 17 MR. SCHWARTZ: Your Honor, with regard to your Honor's charge concerning the accomplice testimony, I
18 most respectfully except to your Honor's failure to charge
19 as set out in U. S. against Pageant.

20 21 THE COURT: I read that and I declined to do it this morning.

22 You have an exception to that.

23 24 MR. SCHWARTZ: Your Honor, again I most respectfully except to that part of your Honor's charge as it 25 dealt with the circumstantial proof of the existence of the

2 narcotic drug. I realize that perhaps your Honor was 3 framing it under Agueci.

4 THE COURT: It was under Agueci.

5 MR. SCHWARTZ: What I am saying is, at least it
6 was my impression, your Honor, that this jury could come
7 away feeling that they can facts that may be established
8 under one substantive count and apply them to others
9 because the fact that it was a white powder and the fact
10 that it was this or that may have only been established 11 as to one count and there is absolutely no evidence with 12 regard to any other.

13 THE COURT: I think I charged that it should be 14 under all counts, but the point of the matter is that I
15 left even part of it out from Agueci which could have 16 been charged.

17 I also left out the part that the seizure was 18 actually narcotics and it was tested and purposely I
19 didn't put it in because I felt I didn't want to go that 20 far. I think I gave sufficient guidance to the jury.
21 The exception is noted.

22 MR. BROWN: For the record, your Honor, I will
23 adopt each and every exception set forth by Mr. Schwartz 24 with the exception of the marshaling of the evidence, which 25 I object to.

2 THE COURT: I am ruling with you on that.

3 MR. SCHWARTZ: I am reminded that I should 4 repeat the requests previously made and I should take 5 exception to your Honor's refusal to previously follow the 6 submitted requests.

7 THE COURT: The rulings of the Court were
8 objected to on both defendants' parts and I overruled them
9 and I continue to overrule them.

10 MR. SCHWARTZ: Your Honor, it would appear in 11 this indictment that the way the indictment is drafted
12 you have got a conspiracy allegedly, of course, running
13 between the old and the new law.

14 THE COURT: Yes, straddling it.

15 MR. SCHWARTZ: Should there be --

16 THE COURT: Now, if you want that, I am telling
17 you now -- pardon me for running ahead of you because I
18 have been doing this before so I know these points -- I 19 will not sentence under the old law. The old law will 20 not apply here.

21 MR. SCHWARTZ: We have nothing more to say on 22 the subject.

23 THE COURT: Okay, unless you want a special
24 verdict, which I don't agree you can give. I don't think 25 Judge Palmieri is right.

2 MR. SCHWARTZ: We don't want a special verdict.

3 MR. KRIEGER: Judge, we are quitting.

4 MR. LITTLEFIELD: I would only ask that aiding
5 and abetting be charged with respect to the substantive
6 count.

7 THE COURT: I charged aiding and abetting and
8 I decline to go further into it. I am going to tell them
9 about cocaine unless you want to withdraw that. I am
10 going to tell them when they reach these quantities --

11 MR. SCHWARTZ: I withdraw the cocaine exception.

12 THE COURT: All right.

13 (In open court within the presence of the jury.)

14 THE COURT: The marshals will be sworn, please.

15 (Marshals sworn.)

16 THE COURT: All right, the first order of 17 business will be to get them out to eat.

18 MR. SCHWARTZ: Your Honor, just to remind you, 19 you said you were going to include one thing about the 20 testifying of the defendants.

21 THE COURT: Yes, I am sorry. I have said this
22 so many times I assume you know it and I will do it off
23 the top of my head because I think I know this area well
24 enough.

25 The defendant need not take the stand. The

1 os50

2 defendant need not prove his innocence. A defendant
3 need not produce any evidence.

4 The fact that he does not take the stand may not
5 be used against him. You may not presume or infer guilt
6 on his part because of his absence in taking the stand.
7 It should not and must not enter into your discussions in 8 arriving at the facts.

9 All right, we have to excuse the alternate,
10 Mr. Mahoney.

11 Mr. Mahoney, I thank you very much for being 12 with us and I appreciate it and your services are just as 13 valuable as if you were going to give a verdict in the 14 case.

15 You are excused with the thanks of the Court.

16 (Alternate Juror Mahoney excused.

17 THE COURT: Now, the first order of business
18 will be your meal and in order not to get ulcers I would 19 suggest you don't even start to discuss this case until 20 you eat and come back again.

21 THE FORELADY: May we send messages home?

22 THE COURT: I am sure the parties will agree
23 that they can send messages home?

24 MR. SCHWARTZ: Yes, your Honor.

25 MR. BROWN: Definitely.

2 THE COURT: The marshal will do that for you
3 and I would say to you, don't go in with a preconceived
4 idea of who is guilty and who isn't or what.

5 In other words, leave your mind completely open
6 at this point and then when you enter into your discussions,
7 do that in good conscience and when you come up with a
8 verdict that is in accord with your conscience, no one
9 can criticize you.

10 THE FORELADY: Your Honor, do you mind going
11 over the two narcotic laws again, the difference?

12 THE COURT: 173 and 174 was before May 1st,
13 1971. Those laws prohibited the illegal importation,
14 we could say smuggling, into the United States of heroin
15 and cocaine.

16 Another thing they prohibited was the receiving,
17 concealing, buying, selling or facilitating the trans-
18 portation or concealment of a narcotic drug, namely, cocaine
19 or heroin. That is the first law.

20 The second law very simply put says we are going 21 to make a list of different kinds of drugs. They are 22 called controlled drugs and heroin and cocaine are in that 23 list and it says this:

24 You may distribute or possession with the 25 intent to distribute a controlled substance.

1 os52

2 That simply put are the two laws.

3 THE FORELADY: Thank you.

4 MR. LITTLEFIELD: The new law also has an
5 importation prohibition.11 6 THE COURT: I said that. Both prohibited
7 importation and one prohibits the --8 JUROR NO. 9: Did you say that in order to find 9 either defendant guilty on Counts 2, 3 and 4 we first have 10 to find him guilty on Count No. 1?11 THE COURT: Oh, no, no. You can find them
12 guilty on Count No. 1 only. No, there is no need for 13 that. JUROR NO. 9: They are all completely separate?14 THE COURT: You discuss each crime separately 15 and make a judgment as to each crime separately on the 16 elements that I have described to you in that particular
17 crime.

18 All right, you may retire and deliberate.

19 MR. SCHWARTZ: Your Honor, is it a matter of 20 fact that the jury is going out to dinner?

21 THE COURT: Yes.

22 MR. SCHWARTZ: Can we go, too?

23 THE COURT: Yes, I would say for at least an 24 hour and a quarter and if you would be so kind to let 25 Mr. Farley know where you are going, if anything happens,

1 os53

1797

2 we may locate you, but I don't think there will be any
3 need for at least an hour and a quarter.

4 When they come back may they have the exhibits
5 if they call for them and I will have the authority for 6 the marshal to bring them in to them?

7 MR. SCHWARTZ: Surely, your Honor.

8 THE COURT: All right, you may retire.

9 (The jury retired for dinner and after dinner
10 to commence deliberating at 5.50 p.m.)

2 (At 9.10 p.m., a note was received from 3 the jury.)

4 (Court's Exhibit 4 marked.)

5 THE COURT: I have a note from the jury
6 stating:

7 "We want the direct testimony dealing with 8 the approximately two or more kilograms of cocaine
9 mentioned in Count 4 pertaining to Roberto Rivera."

10 MR. LITTLEFIELD: 394 is where we start.

11 THE COURT: This is Cancio's direct testimony?

12 MR. LITTLEFIELD: That is right.

13 THE COURT: Bring in the jury.

14 MR. SCHWARTZ: There is also some direct testi-
15 mony, your Honor, in Banderas.

16 THE COURT: We will first read this to them and 17 we will get to Banderas next. We will take that up at 18 the side bar.

19 MR. SCHWARTZ: This is concerning the same thing.

20 THE COURT: Show it to Mr. Littlefield.

21 MR. LITTLEFIELD: Banderas doesn't talk about 22 Roberto Rivera at any point.

23 MR. SCHWARTZ: I think that is important for 24 them to hear.

25 THE COURT: I don't know whether it is important

1 os55

2 or not. This definitely does and then we will take the 3 other matter up at the side bar. We can also find out
4 from them whether this is what they want.

5 (Jury present.)

6 THE COURT: I have a note from the jury which 7 reads:

8 "We want the direct the testimony dealing 9 with the approximately two or more kilograms of 10 cocaine mentioned in Count 4 pertaining to Roberto
11 Rivera."

12 Now, I assume from that question that you are 13 talking about the witness Cancio and his direct testimony?

14 All the jurors seem to be nodding in the 15 affirmative.

16 Now, that testimony we are going to start to 17 read at page 894 and when you get to the point that you
18 have heard as much as you want in that particular area, 19 you indicate to me that you have heard enough when the 20 point comes in time.

21 All right.

22 (The record was read commencing at page 894
23 through page 907.)

24 JUROR NO. 5: We are definitely looking for the 25 portion that speaks about the two kilograms of cocaine.

2 MR. SCHWARTZ: Can we approach the side bar,
3 your Honor?

4 THE COURT: Yes.

5 MR. LITTLEFIELD: I don't think there is any 6 specific testimony about two kilograms.

7 THE COURT: There is no mention of that definite
8 amount. It is about and the money gives you a clue as to 9 the quantity.

10 MR. SCHWARTZ: Your Honor, there is no mention
11 of even an amount.

12 MR. LITTLEFIELD: We just said that.

13 MR. SCHWARTZ: Not even "about".

14 THE COURT: I said there is no mention of any 15 two kilos or anything else, but when you figure the money
16 that is the only clue you have.

17 MR. SCHWARTZ: Your Honor, can we come to the 18 side bar?

19 THE COURT: Wait a minute. Let's find out if 20 the jury wants anything more read. They are the ones
21 that are concerned with this.

22 MR. SCHWARTZ: There is some more that throws
23 light on this, your Honor.

24 THE COURT: I can understand that, but at this 25 time we are at the request of the jury so we will do what

1 os57

2 they ask.

3 (Pause.)

4 JUROR NO. 9: I think we are set.

5 THE COURT: You want any more read?

6 JUROR NO. 5: N, that is sufficient.

7 THE COURT: Is there anybody else that wants
8 anything read?

9 THE FORELADY: I don't think so, no.

10 THE COURT: All right, thank you. You may 11 retire.

12 (The jury retired to deliberate further at 13 9.35 p.m.)

14 (At 10.10 p.m. the jury announced a verdict.)

15 (In open court; jury present.)

16 THE COURT: Will you first poll the jury to see 17 that they are all here.

(Roll called; all jurors present.)

18 THE COURT: Miss Leaycraft, you are the one
19 that reports the verdict and the first count that we are 20 going to talk about is Count 1, the conspiracy count.

21 Now, as to the defendant Torres, have you come
22 to a verdict on that first count?

23 THE FORELADY: Yes, we have.

24 THE COURT: What is the verdict?
25

2 THE FORELADY: Guilty.

3 THE COURT: As to the defendant River on the 4 first count, have you come to a verdict on that?

5 THE FORELADY: Yes, we have.

6 THE COURT: What is the verdict?

7 THE FORELADY: Guilty.

8 THE COURT: Now, as to the second count, which 9 concerns only the defendant Torres, have you come to a 10 verdict on that count?

11 THE FORELADY: The second?

12 THE COURT: The second count as to Anthony 13 Torres alone, have you come to a verdict on that?

14 THE FORELADY: Yes.

15 THE COURT: What is your verdict on the second
16 count?

17 THE FORELADY: Guilty.

18 THE COURT: We come to the third count which 19 concerns the defendant Torres.

20 How do you find the defendant Torres as to third
21 count?

22 THE FORELADY: Guilty.

23 THE COURT: Now we come to the last count and 24 that concerns the defendant Rivera.

25 Have you come to a verdict as to the defendant

1 os59

2 Rivera on the fourth count?

3 THE FORELADY: That is Count 4?

4 THE COURT: Count 4.

5 THE FORELADY: Guilty.

6 THE COURT: Guilty as to Count 4.

7 I am going to poll the jury, which means that I
8 will ask you individually whether or not this is your 9 verdict and, if it is, you will answer "Yes" and, if it
10 isn't, of course you will answer "No".

11 Harken to your verdict as it has been recorded
12 up to this time.

13 Do you find as to the first count, the conspiracy
14 count, both defendants are guilty?

15 Do you find that as to the second count the 16 defendant Torres is guilty?

17 Do you find as to the third count that the 18 defendant Torres is guilty?

19 And do you find as to the fourth count that the 20 defendant Rivera is guilty?

21 (Jury polled; all jurors answer in the 22 affirmative.)

23 THE COURT: All right, the verdict will be 24 entered as it has just been recorded.

25 I never comment on a jury's verdict because in

1 os60

2 26 years that I have been in this kind of an atmosphere
3 I have always felt the same about it. I think I
4 mentioned it once before. That if you do your job
5 according to your conscience, there isn't anybody that can 6 criticize you, but I do have some trouble about trying to 7 get you home.

8 (Discussion off the record.)

9 THE COURT: I want to say, by the way, that I
10 received that note and that package and I opened it and 11 thank you for the thought.

12 It is a small jar which says "Boston Beans"
13 on it, but they are not beans at all. They are jelly
14 beans. I thank you in any event.

15 All right, you are excused at this time.

16 (Jury left the courtroom.)

17 THE COURT: I imagine you want to reserve your 18 jotions, do you not?

19 MR. SCHWARTZ: Yes, your Honor, if that is 20 possible to the day of sentence.

21 THE COURT: What is a convenient day in the 22 middle of September for sentence?

23 Pick a date.

24 MR. SCHWARTZ: Your Honor, is it possible to get 25 a date later on towards the end of the month?

1 os61

2 THE COURT: Yes, why not? What date do you
3 want?

4 How about the 234d, that is a Monday?

5 MR. SCHWARTZ: How about the 30th, your Honor.
6 It is a Monday.

7 MR. DREZIN: The 30th would be very bad for me,
8 your Honor.

9 THE COURT: On the 2nd I have Congressman
10 Brasco's case so can you take the week before or pick some 11 day before that?

12 MR. DREZIN: October 1st would be all right.

13 THE COURT: Is the 1st all right?

14 MR. SCHWARTZ: That is all right with me, your 15 Honor.

16 THE COURT: All right, October 1st.

17 Present bail conditions continued. They are 18 remanded, I believe, in default of bail, are they not?

19 MR. LITTLEFIELD: Yes, but the Government would 20 ask that they be remanded.

21 MR. SCHWARTZ: They are remanded.

22 THE COURT: I will remand them at this time,
23 but if there is any application for bail, I will be glad 24 to hear it at any time if there is such an occasion that 25 arises.

(Whereupon, at 10:30 p.m. the case was concluded.)
